Renewing a flat roof. 10 / 10

I am trying to contact Coomber Roofing re a guaranteed flat roof done in 2010 as there appears to be a problem with it but they don't phone back or answer emails. Customer in Haywards Heath, 17 April 2014

Reply from Trader: The email I received from the customer went to my junk mail. I was contactable on the mobile but was not called. I did find a missed call on the office answer phone, which I had over looked, and for this I apologise. I contacted the customer and arranged a visit. Although the roof is still covered by our guarantee, I found that one of the leaks was on the other side of the building from where we worked, and at a lower level, and the leak where the flat roof was replaced relates to a parapet wall where there is defective pointing, and insufficient trays. These issues were not a problem when the work was carried out, and are a result of the severe rain fall over the last two winters. I have also advised the pitched roof is now showing many signs of potential failure. I spoke to the customer about the way forward and we are pricing up the defective areas, including a visit from the original felt roof sub contractor, and a brick work associate who will advise on the situation re the pointing, and trays.

Ridge tile came off in wind. 10 / 10
Despite being very busy after the recent high winds they attended same day and completed job as further rain was due. Customer in Brighton, 30 April 2012
