Adam is a nice guy. We agreed we needed to be clearer about the job in advance. Customer in London, 4 May 2017
Reply from Trader: The customer requested a quotation on sand, fill, varnish and insulation.
When I visited the customer she advised she did not want a shiny finish. I applied a sample on her floor of the silk matt and she decided to go with the matt finish but did not say about changing the colour. Once the job was completed she said she thought the floor would be a different colour so I advised that in order to change the colour of the floor this would need to be stained. I went back a few days later and did the whole floor again and charged for the price of the materials of the varnish and the stain. I was always on time arriving around 7.30 , I always left the property clean and responded to all calls and Emails . I would never try to talk any customer to having a certain floor, I listen to each customer in detail and try to advise them the best I can as I want all my customers to be happy with the floor finish . I think in this case i think our customer thought the varnish would change the colour of the floor. i will now take this on board and make sure all my customers are aware that this is not the case.

Very pleased with them. They finished a three-day job in two. They sanded, varnished and where needed fixed cracks and historic damages in the boards. A reliable family business that we are happy to recommend. Customer in London, 1 April 2017
