Construct new pitched roof and removed interior walls. 10 / 10

Niche have just completed major alterations to the rear half of our bungalow. The work involved the construction of a new pitched roof, removal of a load bearing wall and extensive reconstruction of exterior brickwork. The whole project was carried out by Steve and his, well-motivated team, in an efficient and professional manner. While patient and flexible in their approach to every aspect of the job, the project started and finished as planned with a superb quality of workmanship. Steve is great at finding solutions to potentially tricky construction problems; you definitely get the feeling that he is on your side and will do his best for you. We've asked him to help us with the next phase of our project: removing a chimney breast in the master bedroom and constructing a new en-suite shower room. I'd recommend Steve without hesitation. Customer in Worthing, 4 November 2011

Loft conversion, New Roof and downstairs alterations 9.8 / 10

Steve and his team managed the entire job from plans and permitted development application to completion, even planning the layout of my kitchen and bathrooms. I now have a 2 storey chalet bungalow which is a home to my family of 4 instead of a small 2 bedroom bungalow. The finish of the work is impeccable from the windows to the bathrooms, kitchen units, door fittings etc. The downstairs alterations are seamless - my kitchen was knocked through into a bedroom as a through kitchen diner, and the steel is hidden in the ceiling so you can't even tell. Nothing was impossible or too much trouble, and as we were on a tight timescale to move in, Steve and the guys worked into the night for the last couple of weeks to get things ready, you can't ask for more really! I would definitely use them again. Customer in Worthing, 1 July 2011
